CROWN CORPORATIONS

International Development Research Center

Organization Description: IDRC works in close collaboration with researchers from the developing world in their search for the means to build healthier, more equitable, and prosperous societies.

Position Description: The IDRC Internship awards provide exposure to research for international development through a program of training in research management and grant administration under the guidance of IDRC program staff. The internship is designed to provide hands-on learning experiences in research program management - in the creation, dissemination and utilization of knowledge from an international perspective.

Four Program Areas:

- Social and Economic Policy
- Environment and Natural Resource Management
- Information and Communication Technologies ICT for Development
- Innovation, Policy and Science

The interns will undertake a program of research on the topic submitted when competing for the Internship during a part (often around 50%) of their time and will be trained in the techniques of research management through hands-on work experience with their chosen programs programming and practices. They usually work under the mentorship of a Program Officer(s).

For approximately 50% of the time the selected candidates will be expected to provide support to management and program staff in some of the following areas: synthesis of project outcomes; production of publications and dissemination materials or activities on research results; participation in team meetings; research tasks to locate, review and synthesize relevant material; preparation of state of the art reviews; preparation of correspondence, reports and presentations; assistance with the organization of meetings, workshops and seminars; preparation of minutes; updating and maintaining databases; and maintenance of the website; exchange with other institutions working on a broad range of issues related to programming.

Dates: Deadline for receipt of applications: 12 September 2009 (awards will be announced in December 2009).

Type of Internship: Internships are tenable for a minimum of 6 months and a maximum of 12 months at IDRC headquarters in Ottawa or in a Regional Office.

Remuneration: Interns doing their internship in Canada will receive a salary in a range from CA$36 754 to CA$42 548 per year (under review), depending on qualifications and experience.

Eligibility: The program is aimed at candidates who, through demonstrated achievements in academic studies, work or research, have shown interest in the creation and utilization of knowledge from an international perspective. Canadian citizens, permanent residents of Canada and citizens of developing countries may submit an application. They must be either currently registered in a Master's Program or have completed a Master's Degree in a recognized university. Their research must focus on a developing country. Candidates need not be affiliated with an institution. They may participate in internships as part of an academic requirement.

Selection: IDRC staff will review the applications and select successful candidates.

BRITISH COLUMBIA:

Provincial Legislature of British Columbia

Position description: The program offers an opportunity to Canadian university graduates to supplement their academic training by observing the daily workings of the Legislature first hand, and to provide Members of the Legislative Assembly with additional assistance during the parliamentary session. The ministry and caucus assignments are designed to provide exposure to public policy-making and legislative processes. Interns will acquire skills and knowledge they can apply in their chosen careers and future life experiences. In the long term, it is expected that Interns will contribute to a greater public understanding and appreciation of our system of parliamentary government.

Requirements: To apply to the B.C. Legislative Internship Program, applicants must meet the following requirements:

- B.C. resident;
- Canadian citizenship or landed immigrant status;
- A completed Bachelor's Degree from a Canadian university or B.C. university-college; and,
- The Bachelor's Degree requirements must have been completed within the immediate 2-year period prior to the start of the internship program.

Application Process: Application is typically made during the student's final undergraduate year; however, applicants must have completed all of the Bachelor's Degree requirements prior to participating in the program. It is the applicant's responsibility to ensure that their application is complete by the deadline date. This includes:

- attaching their personal resume;
- arranging for official sealed academic transcripts for all credits, College or University that go toward their degree completion. Transcripts should be sent directly to the B.C. Legislative Internship Program from the institution Registrars office; and
- asking three (3) academic professors/instructors to electronically submit Academic Referee Evaluation form on their behalf using the applicants individual tracking number.

Deadline: All on-line applications must be complete prior to the application deadline date. Late applications will not be considered.

Dates: The program commences in January of each year and runs for approximately 25 weeks, until the end of June. Actual program start and completion dates are determined each year by the Program Director.

Type of position: Annual

Remuneration: Paid

MANITOBA:

The Provincial Legislature of Manitoba.

Position Description: The Manitoba Legislative Internship Program was established in 1985 by the Manitoba Legislative Assembly. It is intended to serve three broad purposes. The program provides graduates of Manitoba's universities or graduates of other universities who are permanent residents of Manitoba with an opportunity to experience firsthand the legislative process within the Manitoba Legislature. In addition to being directly involved with the legislative process, the Interns participate in a series of seminars dealing with all aspects of the governmental process.

The program also provides MLAs of the recognized political parties represented in the Assembly with competent and educated assistance in policy research and constituency work. It enables them to delegate some constituency and other matters to Interns and frees them to deal more effectively with the specialized and complicated legislative issues.

Requirements: Interns are recruited through a competition advertised at Manitoba's universities and at universities elsewhere in Canada. Posters for the program appear in December and application forms can be obtained from the Dean/s of faculty and Politics, Political Sciences/Studies, and other academic department offices of Manitoba universities or from the Academic Director for the program. The deadline for the submission of applications is the 13th of February.

Applicants should:

- Have a university degree with academic excellence in any discipline by the time of the start of the internship year;
- Have facility in written and oral communication in English; knowledge of written and spoken French will be considered a strong asset;
- Show ability to conduct independent research and write reports. Applicants invited for interview will be asked to do a short written assignment following the interview.
- Demonstrate evidence of involvement in extracurricular activities.

Deadline: February 13, 2009.

Type of position: Annual- successful applicants are engaged on a ten-month contract from the beginning of September to the end of June of the following year.

Remuneration: Each Intern receives an annual stipend paid bi-weekly (currently $1,133.90 before deductions).

NEW BRUNSWICK:

The New Brunswick Public Service Intern

Organization Description: The Province of New Brunswick.

Position Description: The New Brunswick Public Service Internship Program is designed to attract a new generation of leaders into the province's public service. During the 18-month program, successful candidates would work closely with a personal mentor who would help guide and advise on a career in the Public Service. Successful candidates would also receive an extensive orientation to the NB Public Service, and receive training in support of career growth and development as well as rotations that would include involvement in the non-profit sector.

Deadline: February 13, 2009.

Type of position: Annual

Remuneration: Paid - Each Intern receives an annual stipend paid bi-weekly (currently $1,133.90 before deductions).

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES:

Northern Graduate Intern

Organization Description: The Government of the Northwest Territories

Position Description: Graduate Internships are relevant work experience available to Northern graduates for a one-year period with the GNWT; Interns are usually employed in positions related to their field of study.

New student graduates are encouraged to apply for the Graduate Internships in the Public Sector. Expression of Interest Forms are currently being accepted.
Requirements:

- you must meet the definition of a northern graduate
- you must have completed your post-secondary program within the six months prior to being hired;
- your post-secondary program must be one of at least 4 semesters in length resulting in a college diploma or university diploma or degree; and
- you must have been registered in a full course load (normally 3 courses per semester) for the two semesters prior to graduating (accommodation can be made to recognize special circumstances for disabled students).

Application Process:

- An Expression of Interest Form received on or before January 31, 2009 will receive first consideration for hire. Applications are currently being accepted for 2009 hiring season.
- Complete the Expression of Interest Form and send it, along with a current copy of your resume to Corporate Human Resource Services (CHRS) at Casuals@gov.nt.ca.
- Your resume is matched with Internship positions requested by departments. Once CHRS approves a match, the department is free to contact applicants with relevant education and ask if they are interested in applying for the internship position.
- An interview is arranged and takes place to assess personal suitability. As with all staffing in the GNWT, the Affirmative Action Policy is applied in staffing internship positions.

Dates: Application deadline - January 01, 2009.

NOVA SCOTIA:

The Government of Nova Scotia.

Position Description: The internship program is designed to attract recent post-secondary graduates to the field of municipal government administration. The objective of the program is to assist Nova Scotia's municipalities in attracting, training and development of competent, well-rounded senior municipal administrators with leadership capacity as a means of assisting municipalities with their succession planning. It is expected that upon the successful completion of the municipal internship program, interns will be prepared to enter municipal administration careers in Nova Scotia's municipalities. SNSMR, the AMA, and Nova Scotia's municipalities, are providing this opportunity for municipalities to look at future vacancies in their management structure and to participate in recruiting university graduates to train for potential or expected vacancies.

Type of position: Annual

Remuneration: Paid

Dates: Application deadline: January 01, 2009.

ONTARIO:

Ontario Legislature Intern

Position Description: The Ontario Legislature Internship Program brings eight recent graduates to Queen's Park every year to work with backbench members of the Legislature. The focus of the program is upon the Legislative Assembly as a vital institution of government and, more particularly, upon the role of the backbench Member. Interns provide assistance of various kinds to some of these Members. In this manner the interns are able to supplement their academic training with valuable practical experience. It is expected that they will become thoroughly familiar with the procedures and conventions of the Legislature. At the same time it is hoped that they will contribute in some measure to increasing public knowledge and appreciation of the work of the Legislature.

Requirements and Process:

1. They should take academic excellence to mean that they must have strong records as indicated both by their transcripts and their letters of reference.
2. Candidates should try as much as possible to obtain academic letters of reference from individuals who know them well and are likely to be recognized by the selection panel as clearly authoritative in attesting to the suitability of applicants to serve as a legislative Intern.
3. Although there is no requirement that applicants be political science majors, candidates will assist the selection panel greatly if they emphasize, in their explanation of what they believe they can derive from the Program, how their academic training has equipped them for an Internship.
4. They should present evidence, through their transcripts and letters of reference, that they have sufficient knowledge of Ontario politics, and the parliamentary system of government to be able to submit a paper, at the end of the Program, which genuinely contributes to the scholarly study of the Ontario legislative system.

After the closing date, copies of all applications are sent to every member of the selection committee for examination. Subsequently the committee meets and chooses about 20 candidates for interviews in Toronto. The choice is based upon several factors, including academic excellence, letters of recommendation, and the declared motivation of the candidate. Therefore, applicants should keep the following in mind:

The application form asks candidates for a letter outlining the kinds of activities they would expect to perform as an Intern, and the value of the Internship to them. The response to this question is clearly of considerable importance in providing guidance to the selection committee.

Interviews are held at Queen's Park and last about thirty minutes; those chosen for interviews can expect to be questioned on a variety of topics. Following these interviews a maximum of eight Interns are chosen. The competition is open to recent graduates of Canadian universities (or in exceptional cases of other post-secondary institutions) who are Canadian citizens, permanent residents or landed immigrants; visa students are not eligible to be Interns. In the case of candidates chosen for an interview, the C.P.S.A. will pay, when necessary, for transportation, lodgings, and related expenses.

Deadline: February 28, 2009. Internships are 10 months long and start in September.

Remuneration: Paid (Depending of funding)

SASKATCHEWAN

The Provincial legislature of Saskatchewan.

Position Description: The Saskatchewan Legislative Internship Program (SLIP) provides at least five senior university students, or recent graduates, a unique educational experience each year. The seven-month program will give participants the opportunity to use their theoretical knowledge of government and parliament in a practical setting. They will get first-hand experience with the day-to-day work of elected representatives from both sides of the House. The Internship focuses on the role of the private member. It creates a new and desirable service for legislators by providing them with highly qualified and enthusiastic assistants.

Selection of Interns:

Applicants are reviewed by a committee consisting of the director of the program, a representative from the Office of the Clerk of the Legislative Assembly, faculty members from the University of Regina and the University of Saskatchewan, two former Speakers of the House and one former Intern. Interns are selected based on academic qualifications, evidence of skills needed to assist Members of the Legislative Assembly (MLAs), interest in the parliamentary process, and personal qualities required to succeed in SLIP.

The Saskatchewan Legislative Internship Program is designed for third and fourth year undergraduate university students attending a recognized Canadian university. The Program offers six academic credits towards an undergraduate degree at the University of Regina or the University of Saskatchewan. Applications will also be accepted from graduate students and recent university graduates. Applicants must be permanent residents of Saskatchewan, but may be temporarily out of the province to pursue their education at a non-Saskatchewan university.

The Internship is open to students enrolled in all academic disciplines. Provision has been made, through the Rawlco Aboriginal Saskatchewan Internship, for at least one intern being a First Nations or Metis student.

Dates: Applications to participate in the program are accepted in March of each year. Successful candidates will begin their internship in January of the following year.

OTHER PROVINCIAL

The Conservation Corps - Newfoundland and Labrador

Organization Description: The Conservation Corps Newfoundland and Labrador is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to providing youth with training and employment in environmental and cultural heritage conservation. The Corps was created by the Economic Recovery Commission in 1992 to increase quality employment, training and career-development opportunities for youth. The Corps' founders believed that the programs and activities of the new organization should focus on forging partnerships with the environment and cultural heritage sectors in a manner that would benefit all partners, youth, communities and business.

Position Description: The Conservation Corps Internship Program allows young people to use their education and skills to act as a bridge to the workforce in their field of study. The Conservation Corps has placed interns in a number of projects throughout the province, enabling on-going research in this province to avail of a greater number of educated young people to carry on their efforts. Community proponents apply for an intern for a 12-week period, providing a work plan for a project that encompasses environmental or heritage conservation goals.

Atlantic Council for International Cooperation (ACIC)

Since 2003, the Atlantic Council for International Cooperation (ACIC) has offered quality internships through the CIDA-funded International Youth Internship Program. Our internships give recent Canadian university or college graduates experience working with development organizations overseas as well as in the Canadian context, in their area of expertise. Interns increase their understanding of development issues and actively participate in effecting change as global citizens. The program is also aimed at providing experience that will improve participants' employment opportunities when they return from their internship.

Six months of the internship is overseas (including 2 weeks unpaid vacation) at hosting partner organizations in Latin America, Africa, or Asia. The interns also work for a total of 12 weeks in Canada with an ACIC member organization. This time is split prior to departure overseas and upon return. This allows interns to gain valuable work experience with Canadian NGOs as well as international experience.

To prepare them for their overseas work experience, the interns participate in orientation and pre-departure sessions while in Canada. Interns receive a modest stipend throughout their internship and are covered for return international air travel, medical and travel insurance, visas, and vaccinations.

For our Spanish-speaking placements, an intermediate ability is required; however, language training support is also available. Additionally, interns may apply for funding to pursue professional development activities that will support their internship activities. A dedicated staff person assists interns with support as required.

Upon return, interns participate in debriefing and evaluation sessions as well as job search activities. During this time, interns also undertake a number of public engagement activities to share their experiences with the Canadian public.

Accelerated Economist Training Program

Position Description: The Accelerated Economist Training Program (AETP) offers the opportunity for up to 14 high-caliber post-graduates to work with top decision makers in the Public Service on a number of social, economic and international policy agendas.

Type of Position: It's a challenging two-year program of tremendously diverse work experience divided into four six-month assignments in policy analysis and related areas.

Eligibility: Candidates for AETP must have, or be about to receive, a Master's degree in any discipline.

They must also have:

- at least one half-year course in each of micro- and macro-economics (or an equivalent full-year course with both micro- and macro-economics)
- a half-year course in economics
- a fourth half-year course in economics or a half-year course in statistics, quantitative analysis or research methods.

Candidates are required, in addition to their degree, to have a solid grade point average and to have the competencies outlined in the Statement of Merit Criteria. They must also obtain a security clearance at the secret level.

Application Process: Go to Post Secondary Recruitment at the Public Service Commission. You will also find information on the Program at university career placement centres, and in Public Service Commission offices across Canada, and at career fairs on various Canadian University campuses.

Emerging Leaders for Governance and Communication

Organization/Program Description: The program is supported through Netcorps, a Government of Canada program funded by Industry Canada and managed by a coalition of nine Canadian development agencies and NGOs (Alternatives, Canada World Youth, Canadian Crossroads International, Canadian Society for International Health, CUSO, Human Rights Internet, Oxfam-Quebec, VSO Canada and the International Institute for Sustainable Development).

The program seeks to blend together the use of information and communication technologies and e-governance within public and parapublic institutions and civil society organizations working to improve governance in developing countries. It focuses on the use of Information and Communications Technology (ICT) to strengthen the governance, infrastructure and capacity of civil society organizations. The program includes a training session prior to departure, a six-to eight-month international work placement and a debriefing after completing the placement.

Federal Student Work Experience Program

Organization/Position Description: Many government departments and agencies use FSWEF to recruit students for their departments.

The core of the program is a computerized national inventory of students seeking a job with the public service. This inventory is managed by the Public Service Commission (PSC) of Canada, the agency that administers various federal government-staffing programs.

Students who would like to find a job within the federal government must first complete the FSWEF application form, which is available only on-line.

- the form is sent electronically to a computerized database containing all the applications of students who applied during the current campaign (about 70,000 applicants per year);
- Federal organizations offering student jobs submit a request to the PSC;
- The PSC conducts a search in the database based on organizational requirements (e.g. year/level of education, Field of Study and Skills). The system identifies all the students who meet the search requirements and randomly selects at least five candidates to refer for each position;
- The PSC contacts the selected candidates by e-mail or by phone to check their interest and availability;
- the organization making the request must assess the referred candidates and appoint the successful candidate.

Requirements: To be eligible for FSWEF you must be studying in Canada or be a Canadian student studying abroad and:

- a full-time secondary or post-secondary student in an accredited institution;*

- currently recognized as having full-time student status in the academic institution in which you are enrolled;*
- returning to full-time studies in the next academic term;
- at least the minimum required age to work in the province or territory where the job exists.

Dates: FSWEF campaigns normally run from October of one year to September of the following year. The exact date of the beginning of the next campaign will be posted on our site at the appropriate time.

At the end of each campaign, the PSC deletes all the data from its computerized inventory, so students who wish to be considered for jobs must complete a new application for each campaign.

There is no cut-off date for FSWEF applications. Students may complete and submit an application at any time during the campaign. Student jobs in federal organizations are filled throughout the year.

Please note that the period from March to June is the peak recruitment time for summer jobs.

Remuneration: Students are paid an hourly rate based on their educational level and experience.

Parliamentary Internship

Position Title: Parliamentary Intern

Organization Description: The Parliament of Canada handles all federal governmental affairs.

Position Description: Each September, 10 young professionals from across the country come to Ottawa to experience Parliament Hill from a different perspective (non-partisan viewpoint)

As participants in the Parliamentary Internship Program, interns work for Members of Parliament from both the Government and Opposition benches. They regularly meet with eminent Canadians through the Brown Bag Lunch series and have access to a wide range of journalists, members of the diplomatic community and representatives of Canada's public and private sectors.

Requirements: The competition is open to all Canadian citizens under 35 years who hold at least one university degree.

Dates: All components of the application must be mailed (or submitted electronically, in the case of online applications) no later than January 31, 2009 of the year of the intended internship.

Post-secondary Co-op/ Internship Program within the Public Service

The Public Service continues to be the nation's largest single employer of students enrolled in Post-secondary Co-op/Internship Programs. Since 1990, the government has employed over 3,000 students each year under these programs. In partnership with participating academic institutions, the Public Service plays an important role in providing post-secondary students with the relevant and practical work experience they need to fulfill the requirements of their academic program.

The Public Service Commission of Canada (PSC) is responsible for approving co-op/internship programs from which managers in the Public Service may recruit students. Accordingly, the PSC has established approval criteria against which co-op/internship programs are assessed. These criteria seek to ensure that the programs approved by the PSC are those, which formally integrate, in a structured manner, academic learning with development, through work experiences.

Please note that the Public Service Commission of Canada does not maintain a listing of opportunities on its Web site. Federal organizations interested in hiring students for co-op/internship placements contact the educational institutions directly to place their request.

You must consult the notice boards at your campus career center or co-op/internship placement office for federal government placement opportunities.

You must be registered in a Co-op/Internship Program with your academic institution prior to applying for a federal government placement.

Internship #2 - Senate Page Program

Position Description: Each year, fifteen university students from across Canada are selected to participate in the Senate Page Program. The Senate Pages are responsible for a wide variety of activities associated with the legislative process. Moreover, they are given a direct opportunity to further their knowledge of parliamentary affairs by exposure to the rich tradition of Canada's Parliamentary system and the Senate of Canada.

Senate Pages are enrolled as full-time undergraduate students in one of the four universities in the National Capital Region. They are hired on a one-year contract with the possibility of renewal for a second year. Pages also have the opportunity of remaining for a third year if chosen as Chief or Deputy Chief Page.

The Senate Page Program provides a diverse and talented group of students the grand opportunity to enhance their understanding of the Senate of Canada. Under the direction of the Usher of the Black Rod, these leaders of tomorrow are given a remarkable opportunity to be leaders of today.

Basic Requirements:

To be eligible for the Page Program, candidates must:

- Be full-time students pursuing their first undergraduate degree in one of the four National Capital Region universities (Carleton University, Saint-Paul University, University of Ottawa and Université du Québec en Outaouais)
- Not have previous experience as a Page on Parliament Hill;
- Be able to communicate orally, at the advanced level, in both official languages;
- Be a Canadian citizen or a permanent resident

An examination is designed to assess:

- a) Knowledge of the organization of the Senate and Canadian Parliamentary Procedures
- b) Knowledge of the Standing Operating Procedures for a Senate Page
- c) Knowledge of current events

An interview will assess:

- The ability to communicate effectively and orally in the official language of his or her choice
- Effective interpersonal relationships, judgement, initiative, and reliability

The knowledge examination and the interview may take place at the Senate for those candidates who are in the National Capital Region. For candidates who are not from the region, the knowledge examination could be administered by a designated individual in their school or community and the interview may take place by video-conferencing. An information package will be sent to students whose candidacies have been retained.

Dates/ How to apply:

In order to be considered for the position of Page, candidates must ensure that the following information is provided by November 27, 2009:

- A duly completed application form;
- A cover letter explaining how your experiences, personal qualities, and achievements make you the best candidate for the Senate Page Program; and
- A resume outlining your education, extracurricular and volunteering activities, interests, and employment
- As well, two confidential letters of recommendation will be required.
- Each letter must be sealed in an envelope by the referee in such a way that it cannot be opened undetected.

It is your responsibility to ensure that the referee conforms to this confidentiality requirement. Letters of recommendation may be written by teachers or administrators of an academic institution, former employers or by a non-family member who has supervised you in paid or volunteering activities of any kind. Referees must comment on your personal qualities (interpersonal relationships, judgment, initiative, reliability), experience and achievements as they relate to your suitability for the Senate Page position.

Date: The letters of recommendation must be received at the following address by January 4, 2010

The Council of the Federation

Organization Description: The Council of the Federation was created by Premiers because they believe it is important for provinces and territories to play a leadership role in revitalizing the Canadian federation and building a more constructive and cooperative federal system.

Objectives:

- Promote interprovincial-territorial cooperation and closer ties between members of the Council, to ultimately strengthen Canada;

- Foster meaningful relations between governments based on respect for the Constitution and recognition of the diversity within the federation;
- Show leadership on issues important to all Canadians.

Position Description: The Council of the Federation Youth Internship Program is aimed at encouraging young Canadians to more actively participate in public policy development, public service, government and political life. It provides young people with hands-on work experience and an opportunity to improve their understanding of how intergovernmental relations operate in the Canadian federation.

This paid internship is for a period of 12 months and is located in Ottawa. Applicants must be aged 25 and under, have graduated from an undergraduate or graduate program at a recognized university, and be legally able to work in Canada. Applicants must demonstrate an interest in Canadian politics and federalism, and be able to communicate in English and French.

Canadian International Development Agency

Position Description: The International Youth Internship Program (IYIP) is a program for Canadian graduates (ages 19 to 30 inclusive), part of the Career Focus stream of the Government of Canada's Youth Employment Strategy (YES). Canada's YES provides Canadian youth with tools and experience they need to launch successful careers.

Selected Canadian partners work with overseas partner organizations to design, deliver and monitor internships supporting local development projects that reflect CIDA's Global Issues. Interns are recruited by the CPOs to carry out the development-related activities identified in a work plan established by all parties. When interns return to Canada, they take part in outreach activities organized by the CPOs to share their experience and insights on development issues. Canadian partners assist their interns in seeking employment opportunities in their field of study.

Remuneration: CIDA allocates up to $15,000 per internship to Canadian partner organizations.

Requirements:

To be eligible for the International Youth Internship Program, an intern must be:

- A Canadian citizen or permanent resident;
- a post-secondary graduate - graduate of a degree or diploma program from a university, college, post-secondary school of technology, post-secondary institute or a CEGEP
- Out of school;
- between the ages of 19 and 30;
- Unemployed or underemployed;
- Legally entitled to work in Canada.

Application Process:

Canadian partner organizations do their own recruiting for the International Youth Internship Program. Interns interested in applying should therefore consult the websites of the Canadian partner organizations.

International Institute for Sustainable Development

Organization Description: IISD is in the business of promoting change towards sustainable development. As a policy research institute dedicated to effective communication of our findings, we engage decision-makers in government, business, NGOs and other sectors in the development and implementation of policies that are simultaneously beneficial to the global economy, the global environment and to social well-being. In the pursuit of sustainable development, we promote open and effective international negotiation processes. And we believe fervently in the importance of building our own institutional capacity while helping our partner organizations in the developing world to excel.

Program description: The goal of IISD's diverse internship programming is to provide young Canadian professionals with the knowledge, skills, resources and experience necessary to advance sustainable development and good governance, and to champion information and communications technologies for development (ICT4D). Since 1997, IISD has placed nearly 400 interns with dozens of leading organizations in almost 50 countries developed and developing. Our interns have worked everywhere from the pristine and vast lands of the Arctic to the culturally rich and tropical forests of East Africa!

IISD internships not only help young professionals develop the skills needed for an international career, they also foster the development of leadership and global citizenship supporting young Canadians who want to become effective agents of change, at home and abroad.

IISD has these internships to offer:

Internship 1: Young Canadian Leaders for a Sustainable Future (YCLSF) - IISD's most established internship program sends young Canadians to a wide range of organizations around the world.

Program Description: The Young Canadian Leaders for a Sustainable Future (YCLSF) program is undertaken within the Government of Canada's Youth Employment Strategy, with a contribution for the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA). IISD has provided more than 300 young Canadians with international internships since 1997.

IISD's goal in this program is to provide young professionals with the substantive knowledge, communications skills, resources and practical experience necessary to develop international sustainable development policies and to become effective agents of change. This program will give young Canadian leaders the skills and opportunities to shape their world. The program includes a two-week training session in Winnipeg on building sustainable futures, a six- to eight-month international work placement and a one-week career enhancement session in Winnipeg after completing the placement.

The Coady International Institute

Organization description: Established by St. Francis Xavier University in 1959, and named for Rev. Dr. Moses Coady, the Coady Institute works with innovative people and organizations to create effective and practical solutions to reduce global poverty and injustice. Coady accomplishes this through education, action partnerships, and initiatives to help young Canadians become active global citizens.

Position Description: Since 1997, the Coady International Institute's Youth In Partnership Program has given recent Canadian university graduates experience working with development organizations in their area of expertise, to help them increase their understanding of development issues and participate in their roles as global citizens. The program is also aimed at providing experience that will improve participants' employment opportunities when they return from their internship.

The youth associates work for six-months with one of the Coady International Institute's partners in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Latin America and the Caribbean. Youth associates who go to Rwanda and Botswana are placed with Xtending Hope partner NGOs whose work focuses on issues related to HIV and AIDS.

Requirements:

- applicants are under 30 years of age;
- have graduated or be about to graduate from a university or college program;
- be unemployed or underemployed;
- never have previously participated in a program funded by Coda's Youth Employment Strategy (YES)

The International Energy Agency (IEA)

Organization Description: The IEA is an intergovernmental organization, which acts as energy policy advisor to 28 member countries in their effort to ensure reliable, affordable and clean energy for their citizens. Founded during the oil crisis of 1973-74, the IEA's initial role was to co-ordinate measures in times of oil supply emergencies. As energy markets have changed, so has the IEA. Its mandate has broadened to incorporate the Three Es of balanced energy policymaking: energy security, economic development and environmental protection.

Current work focuses on climate change policies, market reform, energy technology collaboration and outreach to the rest of the world, especially major consumers and producers of energy like China, India, Russia and the OPEC countries.

With a staff of around 190, mainly energy experts and statisticians from its 28 member countries, the IEA conducts a broad program of energy research, data compilation, publications and public dissemination of the latest energy policy analysis and recommendations on good practices.

The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development

Organization Description: The Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development is an international multilateral organization composed of 30 member countries, representing approximately 55% of the world economy, and 20% of the world's population. Canada is a founding member of the OECD and is represented by a team that makes up the Canadian Delegation to the OECD.

The OECD provides comparative analysis and peer reviews, conducts public policy research and develops guidelines and international norms to guide economic and commercial activity.

Economic, social and political development of developing countries is one of the major concerns of the OECD. A number of OECD bodies address this issue. They are mainly grouped within the "Development Cluster" which the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) is a principal player in which the major bilateral donors work together to improve the effectiveness of their efforts to support development. This Cluster also includes Paris 21, the Sahel and West Africa Club, the Partnership for Democratic Governance and the Development Centre.

Internship #1

Position Description:

- to strengthen its analysis of all OECD work involving developing countries and emerging economies, the delegation is seeking an intern to:
- Develop a grid of OECD work with developing countries and emerging economies;
- Analyze the OECD's approaches to the coordination of development policies;
- Make recommendations to better articulate the work of the OECD with developing countries and emerging economies in line with Ottawa

Requirements:

- Ability to communicate clearly and effectively orally and in writing, in English and French.
- A degree (license or equivalent) in political science or economics.
- Experience using word processing, databases, spreadsheets, presentation software and the Internet.

- Ability to analyze situations or complex issues and make appropriate recommendations.

Term of Internship: for a period of 3 or more months, full time, in Paris (16th arrondissement)

Dates: Start date - April 2009 (or to be determined with the candidate)

*Please send your resume and cover letter by email to Ashleigh Searle (Ashleigh.searle@international.gc.ca) by March 2nd.

Internship #2

Only full-time students who can benefit from a Memorandum of Agreement between their releasing institution and the OECD can obtain an unpaid traineeship within the Organization. Areas of study must be directly related to the Organizations program of work.

These traineeships are for students who:

- are, in principle, nationals of an OECD member country
- are full time in the field of economy or in another discipline related to the work of the OECD (social affairs, trade, agriculture, development, education, employment, environment, finance, fiscal affairs and statistics, amongst others);
- have a memorandum of agreement established or to be established between the OECD and their university or institute of origin
- Master English or French and have the capability of drafting in one of these languages; a knowledge of the other language would definitely be an advantage, as would knowledge of other languages used at the OECD; and
- capable of working in a team in a multicultural and international environment.

Some examples of work entrusted to trainees:

- Participation in study preparation and documents in the fields relevant to the competence of the Directorate concerned.
- Documental research and analysis of existing work.
- Gather, organize and evaluate statistical information.
- Establish notes and participate in the drafting of reports.

Are you interested?

If you are interested in a traineeship at the Organization, and if you have the required profile, please contact directly the Directorates of your choice or those whose Program of Work corresponds to your studies via their Contact us e-mail address available on the right-hand column of each Directorate's website.

The OECD attaches considerable importance to the recruitment of the highest quality professionals and to increasing mobility between Directorates. The Young Professionals Program is intended to promote the achievement of these goals.

It is a 2-year highly competitive program which attracts an average of more than 2 500 applications for seven positions.

Internship #3

Who are the Young Professionals?

- University graduates of outstanding intellectual qualities and personal strengths
- for the last Young Professionals Program nationals from Mexico, Portugal, Japan, Hungary and Spain have been recruited.
- These Young Professionals hold mostly a Master or PhD in Economics, with a specialization in some OECD-relevant fields. In particular, they all have several years of professional experience and international exposure.
- they are fluent in at least of one of the two OECD official languages (English and French) and also in other languages, including excellent drafting skills in at least one of the two official languages acquired through studies or professional experience abroad.

Assignments:

The area of a Young Professional's assignment is based on qualifications, personal preferences and institutional staffing needs. Work will be carried out in Paris, but occasional travel may be required.

- Take part in the preparation of studies and documents in areas dealt with by the Directorate concerned.
- Research for documentation and literature review.
- Collect, arrange and evaluate statistical data.
- Prepare notes and participate in the drafting of reports.
- Attend committee and working party meetings.

When does the next Program take place?

The recruitment process typically follows the steps and timing below:

- A vacancy notice is scheduled for the end of 2008 on our website.
- Interviews are held and a decision is taken.
- Formal offer letters are sent out in due time.

What are the salary and benefits?

Salaries and benefits are designed to attract international staff of the highest caliber.

- Basic tax-free salary for these positions, (see our Salaries and Benefits page).
- Staff benefits include comprehensive health insurance, life insurance, and participation in the pension fund.
- Family allowances may be supplemented depending on personal circumstances (for further information please refer to our Salaries and Benefits page).
- Annual leave is 30 days per year.

Who is it for?

Candidates who are interested in the objectives of the OECD in promoting international policy co-operation, mature enough to understand the issues involved in international work, and possess the analytical and drafting skills that will enable them to contribute to policy-related studies; and who

- are nationals of one of the OECD's member countries;
- have an advanced university degree -- a PhD is a definite advantage;
- have a background in economics and/or another subject of relevance to the OECD's work, (agriculture, development, education, employment, environment, finance, taxation, enterprise affairs, social affairs, statistics and trade, among others);
- possess relevant work experience;
- have very good English or French, with good drafting skills in that language; knowledge of the other language would be a definite advantage, as well as knowledge of other languages;
- are team workers and able to work in an international environment.

Application:

- if you have the right profile and wish to apply, please check our list of vacancy notices to see when to apply for the next program.
- Use our on-line application form to apply and attach your CV in Word format to it before submitting. Paper applications and faxes are not accepted.
- Please note that, due to the high number of applications we receive, only retained candidates for tests and interview will be contacted.

Hansard Society Internships

Organization Description: The Hansard Society is the UK's leading independent, non-partisan political research and education charity. We aim to strengthen parliamentary democracy and encourage greater public involvement in politics. At the heart of our work is the principle that civic society is most effective when its citizens are connected with the institutions and individuals who represent them in the democratic process.

We inform decision makers and engage the public in politics by:

- providing a platform for debate on current issues around Parliament, constitutional affairs, participation and engagement
- generating wide-reaching recommendations to improve parliamentary and legislative processes through timely and rigorous research
- pushing the boundaries of new technology and its abilities to engage the public with policy makers
- creating and promoting fresh and accessible resources to help teachers present the citizenship curriculum in an innovative and interesting way
- running training sessions for teachers and policy professionals to enable them to understand arrange of political issues and processes effectively
- bringing students from across the globe to study the British political system and to gain experience through internships in a wide variety of political organizations

The Hansard Society has a long tradition of supporting interns in beginning or further developing their political careers. Many that have worked for us have gone on to distinguished careers in a variety of sectors and organizations including the civil service and Parliament, public affairs consultancies, NGOs and charities, the media and some have attained permanent positions within the Hansard Society.

We really appreciate their immense efforts and hard work over the years and attempt to welcome all interns in the same way as any other member of staff. We feel we are able to provide a springboard into a political career through our broad network of contacts and wealth of experience of the political system.

Position Description: We have a number of internship opportunities available throughout the year working with different programs and issue areas - if there are current opportunities they will be listed on: www.w4mp.org.

We hope to give our interns as wide an experience of our area of work as possible and some new challenges. If you don't believe us why not read some testimonies below.

Rights & Democracy

Organization Description: Rights & Democracy (International Centre for Human Rights and Democratic Development), is a non-partisan organization with an international mandate. It was created by Canada's Parliament in 1988 to encourage and support the universal values of human rights and the promotion of democratic institutions and practices around the world. Rights & Democracy works with individuals, organizations and governments in Canada and abroad to promote the human and democratic rights defined in the United Nations' International Bill of Human Rights. Although its mandate is wide-ranging, Rights & Democracy currently focuses on four themes: Democratic Development, Economic and Social Rights, Indigenous Peoples Rights, and Women's Rights.

It also has four Special Initiatives: Urgent Action/Important Opportunities, which responds to human rights crises and seizes important opportunities as they arise; International Human Rights Advocacy, to enhance the work of human rights advocates, in Canada and internationally, in the effective use of regional and international human rights mechanisms of the United Nations and regional human rights systems; Human Rights and Security, which monitors the impact of "anti-terrorist" legislation and other security measures on civil liberties and human rights in Canada and abroad; and Human Rights and Democratic Awareness in Canada, which initiates and supports the activities of Canadian individuals and groups relating to human rights and democratic development around the world.

Position Description: Rights & Democracy is offering an internship in the field of human rights and democratic development to young professionals aged 30 years and under who have completed their studies and are interested in gaining work experience abroad. CDS International Organization Description: CDS International is a nonprofit organization that supports intercultural understanding through professional development programs in Argentina, Germany, Russia, Spain, and the United States. Our programs include international internships, professional fellowships, State Department public diplomacy initiatives, J-1 visa services, work-study programs, and study tours. We have over 40 years of experience working with participants from more than 80 countries.

Position Description: The Memorial German Internship Program - German State Parliaments (EMGIP) is a fellowship program that provides U.S. and Canadian students with internships at a German state parliament (Landtag). Internships afford students an excellent opportunity to gain government work experience, improve their German language skills, and learn about German culture firsthand. EMGIP is ideal for students planning on pursuing careers at a regional level of government in the U.S. or Canada, or who have an interest in a specific policy issue such as the environment, education and / or healthcare.

Requirements:

Eligibility requirements:

- U.S. or Canadian citizen
- Undergraduate and graduate students enrolled at accredited American or Canadian colleges and universities may apply. U.S. citizens graduating from an accredited U.S. college or university is also eligible (internships must begin within 3 months of graduation)
- 18-30 years of age
- High-intermediate German skills (oral and written). Candidates must be able and willing to communicate in German and possess a good command of professional vocabulary in their field.
- Minimum of two years of university level studies in a field related to one of the following: International Relations, Public Administration, Political Science, Law, Economics, European Studies with an emphasis on Germany, German or German Studies, with a minor in one of the fields listed here
- some relevant work experience (e.g. internship, volunteer work, summer job). It is important that a candidate knows how to adjust to a professional environment and how to use theoretical skills in the workplace.

Type of Internship: EMGIP runs three times a year Ñ fall, spring, and early summer for one to three months, depending on elections, holiday schedules and state offices preferences. While participants have some flexibility as to when they would like to do their internship, late summer, and the winter holiday season are not feasible.

Remuneration: Monthly stipends of up to EUR 500 for U.S. citizens (Please Note: Monthly stipends for Canadian citizens cannot be guaranteed this is dependent on the Landtag)

Dates:

- October 1, 2009 for Spring 2010
- December 1, 2009 for early Summer 2010
- March 31, 2010 for Fall 2010

EMGIP is administered in cooperation with our partner organization, InWEnt: Capacity Building International, based in Bonn, Germany.

Global Policy Forum

Organization Description: Global Policy Forum is an independent policy watchdog that monitors the work of the United Nations and scrutinizes global policymaking. GPF works particularly on the UN Security Council, the food and hunger crisis, and the global economy. We promote accountability and citizen participation in decisions on peace and security, social justice and international law.

GPF gathers information and circulates it through a comprehensive and heavily-visited website, as well as through frequent media interviews. We play an active role in NGO networks and other advocacy arenas. We organize meetings and conferences and we publish original research and policy papers.

GPF analyzes deep and persistent structures of power and dissects rapidly emerging issues and crises. GPF's work challenges mainstream thinking and questions conventional wisdom. We seek egalitarian, cooperative, peaceful and sustainable solutions to the world's great problems.

Position Description: Global Policy Forum welcomes applications for internships. We encourage qualified undergraduates to apply, as well as graduate students and those between degrees. We welcome students who have studied the United Nations and international organizations, but we consider specialized academic training less important than dedication to GPF's goals, intelligence and enthusiasm for learning.

GPF is looking for applicants who are students of Political Science, International Relations, International Law, Political Economy or International Public Policy Studies. We especially encourage applications from those with broad international travel and work experience and those with a progressive, egalitarian and global outlook.

Intern Responsibilities:

GPF interns are involved in an intensive process of learning and observing, which enriches their knowledge of international affairs, the UN, non governmental organizations, GPF, and the many issues we work on.

Each intern specializes in one or more well-defined areas, known at GPF as "portfolios." There are a number of such portfolios -- Security Council, Iraq, Empire?, Social and Economic Policy, NGOs, UN Reform, International Justice, UN Finance, Nations & States, and Globalization.

While interns have a variety of different opportunities and experiences, they have a primary responsibility for development of the GPF website in their portfolio area(s). They devote the majority of their time to this activity, in which they function somewhat like the editor of a magazine or newspaper -- finding, selecting and posting information to the site. This is an intense learning experience, involving web research, blurb writing, CMS and HTML. Interns also gain deeper knowledge and understanding of the UN, global policy and GPF's priorities.

Type of internship: 3x a year, unpaid

Dates:

Summer Team -- May-August

(firm application deadline February 1st)

Fall Team -- August - December

(advise applications by May 1st)

Spring Team -- January - May

(advise applications by October 1st)

Application Requirements:

- Cover Letter- describe why you are interested in interning with GPF and what special skills or experience you have that would fit with GPF's programs
- Availability - a page describing the proposed starting and ending dates of your internship, the number of hours per week you would be available, the exact days and hours you would be available (if other than standard 9-5:30 work week), and whether your internship will be contingent on your obtaining funds such as competitive scholarships

- Resume - a resume showing academic accomplishments, work experience, language studies, volunteer experience etc. Please include email address.
- References - the names, phone numbers, and email addresses of two references (one academic and one work-related preferred). Please include the title and organization of the referees and a few words indicating the context of your work with them.
- Writing Sample - a piece of writing, for example a course paper, an article written for a school news paper, or some other essay showing your writing skills and personal thinking on a topic relevant to GPF's work. (for example something related to the UN, international peace, international development etc.). (maximum 5 pages/2000 words)
- Countries visited - a list of the countries you have visited, with a star next to each country where you have stayed for two months or more. (Be sure to describe in your application all major international experiences, such as study or work.)
- Interview - information about whether you would be available for an interview in New York. If you are living at a great distance, please add information on how we can reach you by phone for the interview. We prefer to meet candidates in person, but we interview many candidates by phone.

Commission of the European Union

Organization Description: The European Commission embodies and upholds the general interest of the Union and is the driving force in the Union's institutional system. Its four main roles are to propose legislation to Parliament and the Council, to administer and implement Community policies, to enforce Community law (jointly with the Court of Justice) and to negotiate international agreements, mainly those relating to trade and cooperation.

The main features of the Commission's web site are:

- the latest official press releases, photos and live TV coverage of EU affairs
- details of forthcoming events
- links to the policies administered and implemented by the Commission
- the possibility of influencing the decision-making process
- easy access to its organization (meetings, work program, contacts...)
- direct links to its key information services

Position Description: The aims of the official in-service training with the Commission of the European Union are:

- to provide young university graduates with a unique, first-hand experience of the workings of the European Commission in particular, and of the EU institutions in general. The training also aims to provide an understanding of the objectives and goals of the EU integration processes and policies;
- to give trainees an opportunity to acquire practical experience and knowledge of the day-to-day work of the Commission Departments and Services. They will have an opportunity to work in a multicultural, multilingual and multiethnic environment, contributing to the development of mutual understanding, trust and tolerance. European integration will be promoted within the spirit of new governance and through active participation - creating an awareness of true European citizenship;
- to give young university graduates the opportunity to put into practice knowledge acquired during their studies, particularly in their specific areas of competence. To introduce these graduates to the professional world and its constraints, duties and opportunities.

The European Commission, through its official traineeships scheme:

- benefits from the input of young enthusiastic graduates, who can give a fresh point of view and up-to-date academic knowledge, enriching the everyday work of the European Commission;
- creates a pool of young people with first-hand experience of and trained in European Commission procedures, who will be better prepared to collaborate and co-operate with the European Commission in the future;
- creates long-term "goodwill ambassadors" for European ideas and values, both within the European Union and outside.
